NEW REMEDIES. NEW REMEDIES!

DR. GIBBONS'

DISPENSARY,

623 Kearny St.,

Corner Commercial Street,

SAN FRANCISCO.

Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc., Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Rheumatism successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearney street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where he will be pleased to see his patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in searching out new remedies, and has returned with unbounded facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated, and disfigured faces and forms; broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene, or, in despair, they commit suicide. To those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies, we would say, be warned in time, and do not delay a moment. Secure the services of a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, relying upon the public to buy up the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, practiced by both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the back, confused vision, blotched face, lack of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, check these symptoms immediately, or by letter, and apply immediately to his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars for any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

Married Men,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of those baneful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them, nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DR. GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Cured at Home.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating carefully symptoms, length of time the disease has existed, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By including the Dollars in registered letter addressed to the Post Office of the undersigned, Dr. Gibbon, a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union. All communications strictly confidential. Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearny street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Postoffice Box 1,937. REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,937 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the DAILY OREGONIAN. ly6dp

VOL. XV.—NO. 146. PORTLAND, OREGON: TUESDAY, JULY 27, 1875. PRICE—TEN CENTS.

EASTERN NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Death of Geo. H. Mumford.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Vice President George H. Mumford, of the Western Union Telegraph Company, left for Europe less than a month ago for his health, accompanied by his sister and her husband, Dr. Fowler. Cable advices yesterday announced his serious illness, and a few hours later his death. Mumford's family are here.

NEW YORK, July 26.—The cable states that Vice President Mumford, of the W. U. Telegraph Company, died in Paris yesterday.

A Defaulter Gets off Easy.

COLUMBUS, O., July 26.—H. S. Rich, defaulting agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, was taken before the mayor to-day and discharged, no charges appearing against him. This is in accordance with the terms of compromise made between his sureties and the railroad officials, Rich giving such information as leads to the recovery of the $5,000 embezzled and lost in gambling.

Held to Answer for Inciting Riot.

PHILADELPHIA, July 26.—Daniel Fee was to-day held in $2,000 bail to answer the charge of inciting a riot. He was one of the leaders in the recent attack on ex-priest Gerdemann. Gerdemann will lecture on "Priesthood" at Horticultural Hall on Wednesday night, and the national protestant alliance will attend in a body.

Business Failure.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Another important failure is announced in the grocery trade—that of Martin Lilley & Co. The house did an extensive business with the city and country, and stood well in credit until recently, when it was found they had some time ago, locked up a good part of their capital in real estate.

WASHINGTON CITY.

More Distilleries.

CHICAGO, July 26.—A Washington special says the Internal Revenue bureau has received information of the seizure of three more distilleries in Pekin, Ill. These distilleries were seized as the result of examination of stubs of revenue books collected. These with the authorities think will finish evidence for the arrest of fifty more distilleries and rectifiers before October.

A Conflict of Decisions.

The British government does not acquiesce in the construction given to the Washington treaty by the secretary of the treasury in the matter of the Canada sealskin bill. In that letter General Bristow substantially concludes the consular seal can, under the treaty, only pass Canadian merchandise beyond the limits of the frontier port of the United States, in case the merchandise is designed for consumption inside the United States. The Canadian merchants have protested against this construction. Sir Edward Thornton, the British minister, has entered their protest, which claims the Treaty of Washington was framed to permit goods under the consular seal to pass beyond the frontier port of the United States to their destination, without further entanglement. The secretary of state has referred the objection to the attorney general for his opinion.

Federal Appointments.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Thomas R. Moseley has been appointed internal revenue storekeeper, and Frederick C. Briggs inspector of tobacco and cigars for the first district of California.

Retirement of Fisher.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Judge Fisher has tendered the resignation of the office of U. S. district attorney for the district of Columbia, to be forwarded by the attorney general to the President. Fisher will retire upon the qualification of ex-Gov. Welles, of Florida, who has accepted the office.

A Treasury Clerk Indicted.

The secretary of the treasury was officially informed to-day of the indictment of Chief Clerk Ferry, and will relieve him from duty this afternoon. His successor is not designated.

Resignation of the Chief Clerk Accepted.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The chief clerk to-day tendered his resignation to the secretary of the treasury, and it was promptly accepted.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Bank of England.

LONDON, July 26.—Amount of bullion gone into Bank of England on balance to-day, £115,000.

A Roorback Exploded.

BERLIN, July 26.—The story of the arrest at Landeck of Count Dez M. Beck, his mother and chamberlain on charges of conspiracy to assassinate the German crown prince is unfounded. It was Landeck by a clerk of Count of Landeck, who has been arrested. There is no such person as Count De M. Beck.

Cotton Mills Closed.

LONDON, July 26.—Thirty cotton mills closed at Oldham to-day, the operatives refusing to accept the masters' terms with regard to wages.

Direct Cable Matters.

The manager of the direct United States cable says no accident has been denied information. A small portion of cable has been injured by a ship to-day. The contractors are now replacing the good cable the injured part.

The Turkish Trouble.

ROUSTA, July 26.—The Herzegovena insurgents were attacked by Turkish troops on Friday, near Nevesinjan, and a severe engagement took place. Many were killed on both sides. Saturday, the insurgents made a sortie from Stolatz and attacked the Turkish garrison at Dulbeno. Four companies made an unsuccessful effort to disarm the insurgents. The fighting lasted all day. The result is not known. The Turks have fired Gorletza.

CENTRAL AMERICA.

Peace Restored—The San Miguel Riots.

PANAMA, July 17.—Peace is restored at San Miguel, the scene of the ultra montane riots. The leaders of the revolt and seven priests were recently arrested and tried, condemned by a court-martial, sentenced to a guard of 100 soldiers, to Fort Libertad, where they were put on board a steamer and sent into Nicaragua. Bishop Guerrero and two canons have been expelled the country, and also several other clergymen. It is said discovered similar outbreaks to that at San Miguel had been arranged for all over the republic.

Boy Drowned at Salem.

SALEM, July 26.—A little son of Gideon Davidson, of this city, aged 11 years, was drowned at the foot of the W. R. T. Co.'s wharf this evening, while in swimming with other boys of about the same age. His body is not yet recovered.

LET US HAVE AN INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE.

BEAVER GLEN, July 21, 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I have asked myself time and again if the taxpayers of our State were safe without the Independent movement? Can dor compels me to answer no, every time. We have accomplished much in our State by putting the old parties on their good behavior. Let us then go forward and put a man in the field for Congress. Elect him if we can. This is no time for loud professions and long windy resolutions. Let us have a little quiet, straightforward work at repairing some of the abuses that have crept into our national and state governments. Is it not time for those who are governed to look well to those that govern? Any little bummer expecting a deputyship is of more consequence to this administration than a dozen of the heaviest real bone fide producers, manufacturers, merchants or mechanics of any given county in our nation. For my part, I have enlisted for the war. I can find you plenty of producers who pay from one two hundred dollars taxes in our own State, who cannot afford to send their brightest boy or girl to college for one winter's term.

No, Mr. Editor, I am not willing to sell wheat at fifty or seventy-five cents per bushel to pay such taxes, while the government goes on creating new offices for every imaginary emergency. Just make a note of the frauds that are creeping into every bureau of our government. The fact is our whole governmental fabric has gone into the hands of the place-hunters. I have been around some, and as far as I know, the wish of the Independent element is to run a man for congress. Let us see how many true friends of this movement there are. For my part, I believe, with a strong candidate, we can elect.

G. W. HUNT.

SOUND AND SENSIBLE.

The McMinnville Reporter well says:

If every newspaper and every voter in the State would enter upon the campaign with the spirit of independence, it would be well for all. For whether a man acts or votes with a party or not, his duty both to himself and to the country demands that in the choice of a congressman, attention should be paid strictly to the fitness of the individual both as to personal and political principles, and the idea of some one else going into some other office, or being able to make money, or obtain power or patronage, if considered at all, ought only to be so for the purpose of extinguishing all such schemes. The fact is that the regular office seeker has brought his trade of politics to great perfection, and the last thing considered by any of them is the advantage of the people who go through the form of a choice, but are so skillfully managed that it is too often a choice between the frying pan and the fire.

In the matter directly in point there is much hope of better things. The tremendous shaking up of old fashioned ways and the loosening of old party ties experienced in the last campaign, has taught the voters that there is no dire punishment inflicted on the man who votes freely in this free country; and has taught those who have always managed these things, that if they wish to lead the people they must lead in the way the people want to go. Party war cries, like Indian war whoops, are well enough to keep people going after they get tired, and party leaders are well enough to terrify those who fear them, but both, when rightly understood, are empty sound and fury, signifying nothing.

The New York Tribune discusses journalism in other sections of this great Republic in the following strain:

"Journalism in the West is usually vigorous, if not always polite. A Wisconsin editor recently had the reckless candor to lecture before an editorial convention on 'The Vices of the Press,' and a Milwaukee brother gives him this friendly notice: 'He is the most of a blackguard and the most of a liar of any man connected with a Wisconsin newspaper, and that is saying a great deal for one of his very limited abilities.' But down South they don't stop at words. They have a court of last resort for editors who are not content to quarrel only on paper. The Vicksburg paper has just been telling of its two duels, while its local cotemporary had five editors shot over it, and then died to keep them company. And now we hear of a successful journalistic duelist, evidently from the cropties, who returned from one of these encounters in such a beatific mood that nothing less than this would relieve his mind: 'It is something, after all, to be an editor. The profession, being not altogether unprodnctive of results, offers a field broad enough for ambition of the most varied nature. The bright laurels of war and the modest lilies of peace are alike growths of its soil; and there are garlands, too growing upon its waving glebes to twine the brow of the most exalted fame.' So here, not finding this very definite, inquired what his occupation was, and learned that it was 'standing before a double barreled shot-gun for a salary of $3,000 a year.' The last installment of his stipend consisted of 36 buckshot."

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The Victoria Pioneer Society have resolved to hold a picnic on the 21st of August next.

Some of the goods lost by the caving of the road near Yale have been picked up at New Westminster.

The water is falling in the upper settlements of the Lower Fraser district. We are glad to hear that the damage to crops is not near so great as reported.

Brown, under sentence of ten years' imprisonment for manslaughter, escaped from the chaingang at Nanaimo, carrying an axe with him. He was afterwards seen on False creek trail, striking a bee-line for Uncle Sam's territory.

MINES OF SOUTHERN OREGON.

There were some fine specimens of cinnabar on exhibition at Roseburg last week. It was taken out of the Nonpareil mine, some thirty feet from the surface, and the lead or vein at that point is nearly four feet wide. The Nonpareil mine is found to be paying institution, and a great help to Douglas county.

A correspondent of the Jacksonville Sentinel, writes from Galice creek, under date of July 16, concerning the mines of that place, as follows:

"Here all things are beginning to move in a right direction at Galice creek now. Last Friday Isaac Myers, J. Bilger and Wm. Bybee had a settlement in business in regard to their claims, and I think Mr. Bybee seemed highly pleased with the ledge in which he is interested, and said that he would send a hand here in a few days to open the ledge at the foot of the mountain, and, if it proved good as then they would put up an arastra immediately, and the indications are very favorable for it to be as good there as where they are found in.

On the opposite side of the river they have got a large quantity of rock, which some say is better than that on this side, and they are now engaged in putting up an arastra, under the direction of Messrs. Gregory, Bilger, Myers, Sanders, White and Rowley have consolidated their claims on the Yank, and will commence running a tunnel at once, and propose sending a ton of rock to San Francisco to have it tested thoroughly.

Yesterday morning, July 14th, I moved Mr. Myers, foreman of the English company, up to their camp, some four miles from Sanders' store, where he will superintend the work of building and repairing flumes, ditches, &c., &c. I am informed me that their surveyor would arrive here next Saturday, the 20th, when, I presume, they will employ a large number of men. Everything seems to say better times are coming. This English company alone is going to make the camp quite lively this fall. Provisions are to be packed in on animals for from 40 to 75 persons, beside the packing for the company, which will amount to considerable. There will be work for blacksmiths, carpenters, miners, packers and everybody; in fact it will help farmers, merchants and the community at large, and is just what Josephine needs to keep her alive.

John Marden, superintendent of the Dalles and Sandy wagon road, informs the Mountaineer that the road over the portage—a distance of six miles—is now finished and ready for use. He has moved his camp to one mile below Mosier's, intending to open the road between the Dalles and Hood river, or as far as money on hand will carry it.

The down train on the west side killed a calf for Mr. Rice, near Hillsboro, last week.

THE RECENT INUNDATIONS.

MORE ABOUT THE GREAT DAMAGE TO PROPERTY—REMARKABLE DISPLAY OF CHARITY IN BEHALF OF THE SUFFERERS BY PEOPLE THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY.

[Correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune.]

PARIS, June 30.—The floods that broke out last week in the south of France are the foremost topic of conversation. A few days before, the weather being unusually cold, what would have been rain in the low lands fell as snow on the upper slopes of the Pyrenees. When the wind changed to the west, the swift melting of the snow helped to swell the waters of the Garonne, the Adour, and their influents with astonishing rapidity. At Toulouse the first serious alarm was felt early on the morning of the 23d, a week ago to-day. Twenty-four hours later the populous quarter of St. Cyprien, on the left bank of the Garonne, was under water, hundreds of its inhabitants were drowned or crushed in the ruins of their falling houses, and nearly 20,000 persons became houseless. Toulouse, because of its accumulation of people and buildings and wealth, was a sort of capital of disaster; but the waste and ruin are widespread throughout the valley. Several villages are mentioned where, of 200 and 300 houses, no buildings remain standing but the church and a house or two. Solidly constructed stone bridges have been swept away like driftwood; roads have been gulfed into impassability; cattle and garnered harvests, and growing crops, vineyards and the arable soil itself, have been swept off or overwhelmed with sterile sand and gravel.

The loss of life is greater, I think, than in the Rhone and Loire floods of 1856. The whole extent of material destruction is not yet ascertained. Estimates (as yet only approximate, but they do not seem to be extravagant) rate it at from $60,000,000 to $75,000,000. That it is enormous, and can be only partially made up to the more needy sufferers, is unquestionable. That something can be done for them by the more fortunate is certain, and little questioned. Here is the bright side to the sad story. Misfortune—not when the call was made for the benefit of the victims of a like calamity in 1856; not when the call was made for "our soldiers" in the Crimean campaign; and not when it was made for the peasants unhoused or those from Alsace and Lorraine who were exiled by the late war—have I known in France any movement for charity's sake so spontaneous, general, and largely generous as the one now sweeping over the whole country, with something of the rapidity and of the force of a tempest. All classes and specialties of institutions and individuals rush into it. No sooner had the news of the calamity reached Versailles than the president of the republic (accompanied by the minister of the interior) started for Toulouse, making first those two preparations for his travel—a pocketful of his own money for his immediate use, and advice to Madame MacMahon to put herself at the head of a central subscription committee. It is said that the president drew on his private bankers for the money the third day after his arrival in the wasted valley. No one does say or explain how or when the kind-hearted man gave his tough 68-year-old soldier-body enough needful hours for taking food and sleep. We know that the committee over which his wife presides sent off $40,000 the day after its organization, and has as much more in hand subsequently collected.

Several of the Paris newspapers have opened their open-doors and subscription-lists at their offices. Le Temps, after three days, received nearly $6,000; Le Rappel received over $2,000. The pubished lists of other journals show some larger, some smaller receipts. Many of the 40 daily Paris journals do not receive at their own bureaus, but all solicit, and most of them give. Thus, the Bonapartist L'Ordre sends its $100 (Le Temps gave $400) to the box of its political confrere Le Gaulois. It is a pity that newspaper editors who are politicians by trade and passion could not let the national weakness of human charity run free and clear of their shallow partisan perturbations. La Republique Francaise, the ablest organ of advanced sincere republicanism, having opened a subscription, miserably weakens the moral value of its pecuniary charity by reproaching the Bonapartists, not very aptly, for lack of generosity. Le Pays, by its chief editor, Paul (de Cassagnac), catches at the opportunity for making a characteristically brilliant, sarcastic retort. The provocation was one which only such childish writers merit punishment. Happily, their wretched little quarrel has not largely excited the rank and file of French folly, whether Imperialists or Republicans.

To say that managers of theatres, dramatic authors and actors, are giving their nights (so much more productive than the profits of the the days of other folks, commercial folks, for example, whom no one expects to give the profits of their great days), is merely to say that these people are as usual the most generous of our modern communities. But on this exceptional occasion, be it placed to their credit, bankers and banking institutions, railway corporations, and mercantile houses, are not behind actors, theatrical houses, and men of letters. In a self-sacrificing devotion well ahead of these are the officers and common soldiers of the army, the priests and sisters of charity, who all did, with equally devout thoroughness and unselfishness, the work offered them by the disaster at Toulouse. The call now for such later help as France can give is echoed from prefecture to bishopric, and answered from all the pulpits and municipalities of the Republic.

Leaving out of consideration the other and perhaps better features of this essentially national French movement, this eminent feature of spontaneity and universality is much to be considered. I am the more urged respectfully to request attention to this characteristic because of my reading this morning extracts from an article in the London Daily News in which it is assumed that in face of this immense disaster, the French cannot display any capacity of self-help. That England should seek an outlet in suffering France for some rich portion of her ever-ready overflowing charities, was to be expected. But assurance and alarming should send charitable moneys to those who need in France is a fact anticipated by all. The Anglo-American colony here in Paris is also doing something, though not much, under the impulse given by Lord Lyons and Mr. Washburne.

Gen. Sherman is reported as having answered a representative of the St. Louis Republican, who asked him if he had seen the announcement of the death of Gen. Blair, "Yes, poor Frank is gone; poor Frank is gone." Then, the Republican adds, the general after a moment's silence continued with some warmth, that some expressions of his had been distorted into reflections upon Gen. Blair's character as a soldier, and that great injustice had been done to him thereby. "I always had a most exalted regard for Frank Blair," pursued Gen. Sherman with much forcefulness of manner. "I always regarded him as one of the truest patriots, most honest and honorable men, and one of the most courageous soldiers this country ever produced. I never lost sight of the services he rendered the country in the outbreak of the war, and I fully concede and always have conceded that to his boldness, promptitude and firmness more than to anything else the country is indebted for the preservation of St. Louis as a strategic point, and for the salvation of Missouri from secession. Frank Blair was a noble, generous, honest man. He was brave, frank, sincere and unselfish. His virtues will live forever, because they reflected good upon others, while his faults will be buried with him, because they harmed no one but himself."

THE LATEST DOG STORY.—A New Hampshire paper tell this: "A day or two since the daughter of a gentleman residing in Manchester was cleaning her canary bird's cage, when its inmate escaped, and flew out into the yard. Her exclamation of surprise started up a large Newfoundland dog owned by the family, which ran out, and suddenly putting his paw upon the bird, which had alighted upon a small shrub, bore it to the ground, holding it there until caught uninjured and returned to its cage."

THE KEELY MOTOR.

WHAT IT IS AND WHAT IT IS CLAIMED TO DO—THE MACHINE AND ATTACHMENTS ACCURATELY DESCRIBED—HOW THE MOTOR IS GENERATED AND APPLIED—THE MAGNITUDE AND NATURE OF ITS POWER—THE SCIENTIFIC MYSTERY OF THE AGE.

[Philadelphia Times.]

Cheap production is one of the absolute needs and demands of the age. The nation and people that produces at the minimum rate will command the maximum share of the trade of the world, for the very certain reason that cheap production is followed by cheap sales, and commands the markets of all countries at all times. In order to produce cheap, a nation must have cheap labor, or its equivalent in mechanical force. In the early ages all work was hand-work. There was no other power used. Then came the employment of animals. Then water was put in a condition to aid man as a motor, and that was followed by the erection of mills to be driven by wind. But the great aid to the progress of the labor department of the world was steam. That produced a revolution of the most vital character. One small engine was equivalent to the labor of scores of men, the cost of running such a machine was comparatively trifling when compared with the pay of the men represented by its fruits. But as the price of fuel advanced, the cost of steam as a motor or driving power increased with even pace, and thoughtful men began to inquire whether some other combination of elements could not be discovered which would produce more power than steam, and at a less price to the producing community. That was a most important problem to be solved. The whole industrial world was anxious to arrive at some practical conclusions upon this point. After years of experiment in relation to this matter, both in the United States and Europe, John W. Keely, a native of Chester county, a machinist by profession, claims to have hit upon the great secret and put it in a practical shape. His motor is a vapor of immense power. It is created from a small quantity of water with a certain admixture of air. And this vapor or motor is produced by simple mechanical means, through the instrumentality of a device invented by him and called a multiplicator. There is no heat, electricity, galvanism or chemical substances used, only air and water, and these manipulated in the contrivance of Mr. Keely. The multiplicator is a series of iron chambers, of cylindrical construction, connected by pipes, and furnished with cocks and valves. It is about thirty-six inches high, twenty-four inches long, and thirteen inches wide, and has a capacity of seven gallons. At a distance of eight feet from the multiplicator is a cylindrical wrought iron reservoir, six inches in diameter, and forty inches long. This is connected with the multiplicator by a one inch pipe. A standpipe of brass, about two and half inches in diameter, and three feet high, having a spherical chamber at the top made in two parts, is connected to the pipe uniting the multiplicator and a reservoir. The multiplicator is also connected with a register of force, at twelve feet distance, by a pipe one-tenth of an inch inside diameter. This register of force consists of a piston of one inch square area, pressed down in a cylinder by a lever. A small beam engine stands about six feet from the apparatus, and a hydrant cock connects the whole with the water main from which a supply is obtained. This is a description of the machine by which Mr. Keely generates and develops his new motor. Now as to the operation and power of the contrivance. At the test exhibition of a machine of the size described, the inventor proceeded to make an "expulsion;" that is to develop a force or pressure from the multiplicator that would raise the weight on a force lever previously prepared, or, in other words, to exert a pressure of 1,450.36 pounds to the square inch upon the valve register piston, which, as before stated, was connected by a tube of one-tenth of an inch bore with the multiplicator. This was done by disconnecting the gutta percha tube which led from the hydrant cock to the multiplicator and blowing from his lungs for a brief time into the nozzle upon the multiplicator to which this gutta percha tube had been connected. A cock was then shut upon the nozzle, which closed its communication with the atmosphere, the gutta percha tube reconnected, and the water from the hydrant turned into the multiplicator. This operation can be completed by other means. But this is the most simple. The operation was completed in about two minutes after the attachments to the hydrant had been made, by simultaneously opening two cocks upon tubes which connect the first and second drums and the second and lower drums of the multiplicator, when the lever and weight of the force register was raised by the piston. There was no measurement of time between the turning of the cocks and the raising of the weight. The first propulsion raised the weights about two and a half inches. This power, it is claimed, can be increased to almost any given quantity to the square inch, and thus its value enhanced as a driving motor. It is said that one peculiarity of this vapor is that it can be used to the best advantage when at a very high pressure per square inch, and that little or no danger is to be apprehended from employing it in such a high state of force. In this respect it differs from steam and all other moving forces and agencies. In order to attach an engine to this manufactory of force or power, a short tube, carrying upon its end a reaction wheel having two arms of about two and a half inches long, with open ends turned in diverse directions, so as to be revolved by the reaction of an escaping fluid, is screwed upon the end of the reservoir and put in motion by the manipulation of the two cocks upon the generating depot or multiplicator. Then the connection is complete. In order to reduce the immense pressure of this motor to the volume necessary to run an ordinary engine, it can be supplied through a feed pipe of any dimension required from the size of a pipe stem to an eighth of an inch or more in diameter. A one horse power engine, it is claimed, can be supplied with a pipe of the bore of a knitting needle, as a tenth of a pint of the motor vapor will be equal to all the driving power required. The presentation of the case in this manner will enable the public to see how important the new motor will be, if it comes fully up to all the points that are claimed for it by those who have witnessed the manipulation of the machine by its inventor. Even a portion of the merits claimed for the discovery are put in a practical shape they will totally change the whole driving and motive power of the world. In the first place the new motor will be costless, except for machinery and one or two men to attend it when in use. The manipulator takes up but a small space, and the beam engine is by no means bulky. Coal need not be carried by ocean steamers except in limited quantities, and the space thus emptied could be filled by paying freight. The trifling weight of the Keely vapor motor would also adapt it to the use of street railroads. All these remarks are predicated upon what is claimed for the Keely motor. We have presented these claims in a fair manner, for the idea is of such commanding significance in connection with the trade, traffic, commerce and manufactures of the world as to demand a full and patient investigation of the subject. That there are other motors than those now in use hidden in the vast storehouse of nature is beyond question. Enough was discovered at certain points and applied to commence use. But this did not exhaust the supply in the same direction. Other combinations of elements yet remain, and it is the province of scientific men and inventors to reap that field and gather the sheaves into the common granary of the everyday world. In the meantime, while deception should be guarded against and prevented by all proper means, care should be taken not to let prejudice or preconceived ideas blind the judgment or stop the wheels of real, sound, intelligent investigation of all the reasonable claims for improvements that are needed in any of the forces and agencies of the world. The more movements in that direction the better. Many of them may be bottomless when tested by keen-eyed, practical men, but if one succeeds, as in the case of steam, the world will be amply repaid for the time spent in examining claims of a visionary character.

AN INTELLECTUAL WRECK.

THE INSANITY OF ROBERT DALE OWEN—TALKS WITH THE UNFORTUNATE MAN AND HIS SONS.

[Indianapolis Correspondence of the Cincinnati Gazette.]

Robert Dale Owen, in company with his two sons, Julian Dale and Ernest Dale, arrived in this city last night, en route for the Indiana insane asylum. They registered at the Occidental, and this morning I called at their rooms. Julian and his father had gone out for a short walk, but Ernest, the younger son, received me kindly, and, requested that I should remain until his father's return. He seemed very ready to converse about his father's ailment, and during the half hour which elapsed before the old gentleman's return I learned the particulars of his recent severe illness, and the probable cause of his insanity.

"About one month ago, while at Danville, New York," said Mr. Owen, "my father was prostrated with a severe attack of nervous bilious fever, with typhoid symptoms, and for a week or ten days was very dangerously ill. Prior to his sickness, he had commenced writing a new work on theology, which he desired to finish as soon as possible; and several days before he had sufficiently recovered to do any brain work, and while still confined to his bed, he resumed work upon it, dictating to my sister, Rosamond, who acted as amanuensis. The more he did the more he seemed determined to do, and as soon as he had the strength to lift himself out of bed, he would get up at any hour of the night, and jot down an idea that might occur to him. One night my sister ascertained that he had written upward of four hours. During the day he elaborated and put into shape for the printers what he had blocked out the night before. Of course, this aggravated his disease, especially the nervous affection, and very soon his mind seemed to lose its balance. He couldn't concentrate it for any length of time upon any one topic, and seemed to have lost the power to control and range his thoughts. My sister first noticed this while writing at his dictation. He wandered from one topic to another, and completed no line of thought or argument. This was our first intimation. But presently it took a more tangible form, and left no doubt in my sister's mind that he was out of his head. He imagined himself immensely wealthy, and the heir to the earldom of Broadalbane. He had been reading from his autobiography, and coming upon that part of it which he speaks of, John Campbell, of Glenorchy, who was created first earl of Broadalbane, he seemed to catch the idea that he was the head of the family, and upon him had descended the title and estates of Broadalbane. He talked much about it, and was continually planning how he would found institutions of learning, provide homes for the poor, and give his children beautiful homes, with carriages and fine horses and servants. He seemed to have no idea of time and space. New York and Philadelphia could be reached in a few moments, and he was anxious to visit his friends there.

"After he reached his home in New Harmony, he became more restless and anxesy, and left no doubt in the minds of any of us that he was insane. We were obliged to cross him in almost everything, and could not leave him, night or day. He never became angry, nor attempted to resist us. But his mind was continually wandering, and he wanted to wander with it. He complained of accomplishing nothing. 'I must be at work,' he would say, 'for my life will soon be at an end.' And yet his line of talk seemed to be only motions, for when riding or walking he was perfectly contented. When he took the cars with us yesterday morning he was exceedingly happy. He seemed to think he was accomplishing something, because he was going somewhere."

"Did he know you were intending to take him to the insane asylum?" I asked.

"He knew it and he does not know it yet," replied Mr. Owen; "we shall tell him some time this forenoon, and take him over there this afternoon, if possible. He realizes, however, that something is wrong with him. Two or three days after he reached home from New York, I heard him talking to himself. 'Either I am wrong,' he said, 'or those about me are wrong. Now, who is it that is wrong? If this is wrong (mentioning something we had forbidden him to do), then I am wrong; but if it is right, I am right, and the boys are wrong.' He then recounted various illustrations about which he reasoned in the same manner, and summing these all up, came to the conclusion 'that the preponderance of 'wrong' was on his side, and that 'the boys' were right.'

"Does his insanity reveal itself in his conduct as well as in his conversation?" I asked again.

"Very rarely. Although his general health is much improved, he is thin and looks worn out, so that a close observer might detect his disease in the wild, weird expression of his face and eye, but in no other way, for he acts rationally. But any one would soon detect it by his conversation. He is continually talking, and sometimes in the wildest manner. This morning, for instance, he harangued a waiter at the breakfast table on the slight difference which the color of the skin should make in our estimation of men. He laid it down from a republican standpoint, to the great merriment of all present. He is never violent or boisterous at such times, but his queer way of reasoning, and the laughable conclusions often arrived at, very quickly reveal the fact that he is not in his right mind."

"Does he ever talk about spiritualism?"

"He has mentioned the subject but once, I believe, since we left Danville," replied Owen; "and then only casually. We do not talk with him on that subject."

"How about the Katie King matter? Did not this contribute to his insanity?" I asked.

"I have had this question asked me several times," answered Owen, "but

WHO ARE THE REPUBLICAN MANAGERS?

The Philadelphia Times truthfully remarks that the action of Vice President Wilson in attacking the management of the Republican party represents the sentiments of the old anti-slavery, equal rights element of the party, the element which was its early life, and is now its rent back-bone. It is a fact everywhere observed that it is mainly the old, original Republicans who are now repudiating the authority of the party conventions and caucuses. It is so in Oregon especially. It is a fact frequently remarked upon that a great majority of the Independent Republicans in this State are the men who helped to organize the party, and gave it character and standing in its first conflicts. This can not be gainsaid. It likewise is a notable fact that the men who now have control in the Republican organization, are, with few exceptions, men who trained in the Democratic ranks and cursed "abolitionists" until the Democracy passed out of power, and had therefore no longer the power to reward services with official patronage. It would be an amusing exercise to trace out the political record of the present leaders of the Republican party in this State. We call to mind now but three out of the whole multitude of Federal officials of which the party in this county consists, who were not Democrats, and a large proportion of them only came over to the Republican party after the war was over. Some of these Republican leaders were prominent Democrats as late as the first election of Grant, and some even since.

Such are the persons who now dictate the platforms of the Republican party, determine its policy and manage its conventions, name its candidates, and receive the offices it has to bestow. Whether these facts possess any significance, whether they are worthy of consideration, it is for the old-line Republicans, who were such for principle's sake when the party was a helpless minority, to answer. For our own part, while we have a high personal regard for these men, and while some of them are unquestionably sincere in their professions of devotion to the Republican party, we cannot but think the policy and practices of the party would have been more in accordance with the cherished principles of true, original Republicanism, if Republicans held, if not a majority, at least a respectable minority of the positions of influence and power in their organization. It would certainly prevent many of the unrepublican practices which were brought over from the loco-foco camp, and which lie at the foundation of most of the disaffection that exists among Republicans.

GENERAL PRESTON.

The Democrats of Kentucky are talking of electing Gen. Preston United States Senator. It is not easy to see what there is to recommend him above other members of the party, of unchanging principles, unless it be that having been a rebel he still refuses to accept the inevitable, and never loses an opportunity to expatiate upon the humiliation of the South. He is one of the very few prominent Southern men in whom stubbornness and foolish pride stand for firmness or adherence to principle. The men of practical sonse in the South do not stand upon abstract questions of constitutional law and social rights which were irreversibly decided by the arbitrament of the sword. The tribunal of last resort was reached when the appeal to arms was taken, and whether the decision was such as comported with abstract right, or exactly the opposite, is no longer a question of any practical moment. It is decided, and it would require more than another four years war to reopen the case. But General Preston "lives, moves and has his being" in the memory of that bitter period, and he will not put it out of mind. If the Democracy of Kentucky can do no better for material to make Senators of, the blood of that proud commonwealth must be getting pretty thin.

JUSTICE LONG DELAYED.

For eighteen years the blood of the defenceless men, women and children butchered in the Mountain Meadows Massacre has cried to the United States government for vengeance. The tardy answer, it seems likely, has come at last. The revelations in the trial of John D. Lee are such as cannot fail to arouse the entire country to a just appreciation of that crime against civilization and against mankind, the Mormon church. The evidence shows that this emigrant train was attacked and cruelly and brutally murdered by a force acting under authority of the Mormon government, and that notwithstanding Brigham Young, on being informed of the inhuman slaughter, expressed disapprobation of the deed, he nevertheless took the plunder seized from the murdered emigrants, and sold it, putting the proceeds into the church coffers. No effort was made to bring the perpetrators of the horrible deed to justice, but, on the contrary, every means at the command of the church was employed to shield them. The sickening details of the massacre will prove the strongest appeal to the country against the toleration of the diabolical system which the Mormons falsely call a system of religion.

THE CAUSE PROGRESSES.

While the ring-organs are reiterating in every issue the report invented by themselves that the Independent movement has disappeared everywhere except in Portland, the organization goes steadily forward all over the State. The preliminary meetings are being called all over the various counties for the purpose of selecting delegates to the State convention. In the Mountaineer appears the call, over the signature of the chairman of the county committee, Hon. James H. Douthit, for a mass convention at the Dalles on Saturday the 31st inst. The Reminder has the call for Polk county for the same day. The other counties are moving. There is but one sentiment among Independents, and that is, to go forward, nominate the best candidate that can be selected, and then elect him if possible.

The ring organ is reproducing, from day to day the editorials that appeared in it during the winter of 1872-3 and the summer following. The points, if that can be called point which its pointless, are exactly the same, and the phraseology is altered barely enough to give play to the element of blackguardism which is more pronounced in the present editor's style than in that of the person who handled the crank of the organ at that time. These editorials consist wholly of stale misrepresentations of the Independent Republicans and especially of the OREGONIAN; and are altogether too puerile and silly to merit any attention beyond a passing allusion.

We congratulate the farmers of Oregon on the bright prospects before them. Wheat is now at a good paying price, and is not likely to go back much. It may advance still farther. Short crops everywhere but in Oregon, and long crops in Oregon always.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Special reference having been made in the Daily Evening Journal of July 23, 1875, to the matter of the loss of a mail bag containing registered matter of value, from the United States mail, and making serious charges against Special Agent Underwood and T. H. Cox and U. S. District Attorney Mallory, the subject was immediately taken under consideration by the United States Grand Jury then in session, and was by them carefully and very thoroughly investigated. In that investigation there was no evidence whatever tending to implicate Mr. Cox with the robbery, but it did appear that Special Agent Underwood and U. S. District Attorney Mallory, have done all in their power to find out who committed the crime and to bring the guilty party to justice. The article published in the newspaper aforesaid does Mr. Mallory, Mr. Underwood and Mr. Cox gross injustice, as there was no evidence whatever that would warrant even a suspicion of such charges as are made against them.

This statement is made at the request of a very large number of the members of the Grand Jury, expressed to me, as their foreman, by each of them in person, after the Grand Jury had been discharged, and in my judgment had there been a formal expression the request would have been unanimous. In all of which I concur. R. R. THOMPSON,

CITY.

THE "WANDERING PILGRIM."—The Jacksonville Sentinel says: "S. P. Haslett, well-known by every member of the craft on this coast as the 'pilgrim printer,' for the reason that he is continually on the tramp and never stops long at one place more than a day or two at a time, called at our office last Tuesday and was 'printed,' and if we couldn't do as much work, or 'if we had a couple of fives' to spare him some work, or 'if we had a couple of dollars' to get him on to get a cup of coffee and something to eat." He looked as seedy as ever, with his clothes well torn and worn, and after giving him a piece to pay for his breakfast the next day, saw him he was engaged in a spirited discussion with one of our citizens as to whether his clothes were a complete fit or not. Mr. Haslett has given one of our exchanges a short sketch of some of his experiences while tramping over the country. He has encountered some pretty rough journeys on this route, but nothing to that across the mountains to Siskiyou county to the coast by the Klamath, frequently losing the trail, and once wandering at random over and through the almost perpendicular mountains, along the west shores of the Klamath river, where the only signs of a white man were probably the footprints of a white man's dog. After a long and hard trip he arrived at Orleans Bar, where he remained a few days to recruit, and then resumed his journey. On the second day out from Orleans Bar, he was overtaken by Indians, but soon met a party of friendly Indians, who acted as a guard to Mc-Dowell's ranch, near Arcata. The mail carrier there he followed his tracks along the sandy beach, and finally struck the trail leading up in Eureka, just in time to receive the benefits of a severe shock of earthquake. The 'Pilgrim' states that at some future day, for the benefit of his typographical friends and the public generally, it is his intention to publish a history of his travels and incidents during the last quarter of a century, there being but a town or city in the whole United States where he has not visited, excepting Arizona and Texas, which States he intends doing at a future time. He is coming north, and the members of the "craft" in Portland may look for the 'wandering typo' in a few days.

DROWNED.—On Friday last, Bennie, the 14 years, a son of Mr. Joseph Freiman, family of this city, was drowned in the river near The Dalles, at which place Mr. Freiman at present in business. The little fellow was told to stay away from the vicinity, as it was dangerous. Heedless of the instructions given, the lad went out to bathe with a companion, and during the time young Freiman got into a hole, where he became powerless and before aid could reach him disappeared from sight and was drowned. A gentleman who was well acquainted with the circumstances went in and brought the body out. The remains were placed in a coffin, and under charge of Mr. M. D. Weidenfeld, brought to this city. On Sunday deceased was buried in the Jewish cemetery.

CROSSING FREE.—A gentleman from Vancouver informs us that the little boat Red Jacket was running all day on Sunday between the Oregon and Washington Territory shores conveying persons to and fro free of charge. This was done by way of a compliment to the people of Vancouver, and as a general formal inauguration of the project of establishing a ferry, which will doubtless be a great accommodation to the traveling public.

Hundreds of persons availed themselves of the kind invitation extended and crossed several times during the day. Yesterday the regular boat began making regular trips at the published rates of fare.

BOYS FOUND.—The two boys—John and Neal Love—spoken of in our last issue as having wandered from their home last Saturday morning and got lost, were found yesterday morning at Oswego. On leaving the house, with meals, it appears, "struck out" immediately for Oswego, at which place they had an uncle living. They performed the journey alone and on foot, and reached their uncle's house on Sunday forenoon. Yesterday the whereabouts of the truants was discovered, and they were sent home, much to the relief of their parents, who were half distracted over their absence.

JUNIOR ITEM.—Speaking of this somewhat noted Episcopal divine, who is expected to arrive in Portland soon, the Baker City Democrat says: "Bishop Tuttle, of the Episcopal church, residence at Salt Lake, arrived in our city last week and preached a sermon on the evening of his arrival. He is a fluent and elegant speaker, and was listened to attentively by a large and intelligent audience. The bishop, in company with Bishop Morris, left our city on last Wednesday morning for Walla Walla. He was well liked by our citizens and they hope that he may be able to visit our city often."

FIRE COMPANY ORGANIZED.—On Saturday evening twenty six of the best citizens of East Portland met at Chas. Berthold's, and formed themselves into a fire company, and elected the following officers: Foreman, W. H. H. Baker; 1st assistant, John Freizette; 2d assistant, A. Sylvester; president, Thos. Parrott; secretary, A. Metz; treasurer, Chas. Bartels. The name of the new company is Mount Hood Engine Company, No. 1, and we understand the engine will be purchased as soon as the necessary funds can be raised.

A LONG FAST.—A bank clerk and a gentleman connected with the Portland library association pulled a two-pared shell boat from this city, starting at noon last Sunday, to the village of St. Johns, where they partook of fish, milk, etc., dispensed with a lavish hand by a former friend. About six o'clock the oarsmen returned to the city, feeling very much improved after their long pull. It is safe to infer that they ate a hearty meal this evening.

SURVEYOR.—Mr. C. W. Durrage, the city surveyor, was engaged yesterday in laying the ferry landing at Albina for the new boat which is soon to commence plying between the eastern and western shores of the river. A number of men are engaged in excavating for a roadway leading down to the landing. The machinery is being placed in the new boat, and it is expected that the trial trip will be made within two weeks.

LECTURE.—Dr. J. W. Watts, of Lafayette, will deliver a lecture at the Baptist church this evening, also one at the same place tomorrow evening. His subject on both occasions will be the "Physiological effects of alcohol on the human system." The lecture will illustrate his subject with the aid of charts. Admission free.

PRISONERS IN JAIL.—At present there are seven prisoners confined in the county jail—two United States prisoners and three convicted on State charges. Of the latter there are Baker, Flynn and Wood. Wood, who was committed for petit larceny, will be discharged on Saturday, he having served out his time.

HE WOULD JUMP.—Yesterday, as the train from Roseburg was approaching the L street crossing, a man attempted to alight from the platform steps, and in doing so fell on the right side of his head, causing a fearful cut on the side of the face. The injured man will not be likely to try that gymnastic feat again.

WITH MILITARY HONORS.—It is quite probable that the remains of the late Major John Walker, which arrived on the California, will not be sent East for interment—at least for the present. It is the intention to send the remains over to Vancouver and have them buried in the military cemetery with due honors.

ANOTHER BOY LOST.—A little son of C. W. Leonard, aged about eight years, left his parental house on Saturday and since then nothing has been seen or heard of him. His parents have not the slightest idea where he is, and are consequently much concerned as to the whereabouts of the little truant.

BELLS FINISHED.—The bells for engine companies Nos. 4 and 5 have been finished at Zimmerman & Fraser's shop and await the acceptance of the committee on fire and water. A bell for the church and school at Port Ludlow, W. T., has been ordered of Zimmerman & Fraser.

EXCURSION TO ASTORIA.—Next week the long-talked of excursion to Astoria and vicinity will take place. The steamer Annie Stewart has been chartered for the occasion, and a full band engaged to accompany the excursionists. The steamer will leave Portland on Thursday evening, August 5th, at 7 o'clock, for Astoria. She is expected to arrive at the latter point about 2 o'clock Friday morning. Friday forenoon the steamer will sail from Astoria with the excursionists. She will touch at Fort Canby where a game of base ball is to be played. Those who wish to witness the game can debark at the fort, while the Stewart will proceed down to the mouth of the river, touching at various points and returning to Astoria Friday afternoon. In the evening a grand ball will be given at Astoria, continuing up to 12 o'clock, when the Stewart will start for Portland with all the excursionists. To those who propose going a splendid time is promised. We understand that a great number intend to avail themselves of the capital opportunity thus afforded to visit Astoria and vicinity.

FESTIVAL.—This evening an ice cream festival and social entertainment will be given at Lee Chapel, Brooklyn, the proceeds of which are to be donated to the pastor of the church, Rev. Jos. Hoberg. The Chapel is near the line of the railroad, and will be quite convenient for those who desire to attend. Tickets, 25 cents.

ONE MORE PATIENT.—A man whose name we were unable to learn was brought over yesterday morning on the steamer from Vancouver, and was placed in the St. Vincent's Hospital. He came from Lewiston, and makes the eighth patient at that institution.

BRUSHED UP.—Messrs. Honeyman & Co., of the City Foundry, have cleaned up their machine shop and painted the outside, where a big sign has been erected. This establishment has turned out some excellent work, and is now prepared for the fall trade.

RETURNED.—Gen. O. O. Howard, Col. Bachelder, and Lieut. Sladen returned a few days since from San Francisco, overland via Fort Klamath. The party had a very pleasant time, and returned in excellent health and spirits.

INSPECTING TOUR.—Wednesday next Gen. Michler will depart for Port Townsend, where he will go on board the light house tender Shubrick, and make an inspection tour of the light houses in the thirteenth light house district.

ARRIVED.—Shortly before 8 o'clock last evening the steamer Gussie Telfair arrived from Victoria and Sound ports. She brought a full cargo of assorted freight.

THE STAGE.

THE ALLEGHANIANS.—Now Market theater was well filled last evening on the first appearance of the Alleghanians and Swiss Bell ringers. In fact, a much larger audience was present than could reasonably have been expected, considering the extreme warm weather, and the fact that so many of our amusement-loving citizens are away from the city—down by the "sounding sea," or among the mountains. The programme opened with a vocal selection from "Ernani," rendered by Miss Durgan and Miss Packard, and Messrs. Benjamin and Phelon. The selection was rendered with spirit and precision, time and melody being perfect, and the effect fine. Following came a grand march and quickstep, played in a most beautiful manner on the Swiss bells, by the Misses Packard and Durgan, and Messrs. Benjamin and Phelon. Miss Packard and Miss Durgin rendered a duet, which was sweetly sung and well received. Mr. Sam Collins next appeared in a few of his comical eccentricities. He was extremely clever and created no little merriment. "The Good Old Days of Yore," a quartette, sung by the Alleghanians, was superbly rendered and won the warmest demonstrations of approval. "Marseillaise Hymn" came next on the programme, played in the sweetest manner on the bells. Miss Bell Durgin and Mr. Phelan next favored the audience with a humorous duet. Mr. T. L. Benjamin then appeared in his great musical sensation of the age, which was really as wonderful as it was novel. With the aid of a great number of glass tumblers partially filled with water, to give them the proper tone, he performed numerous selections—such as marches, quicksteps, etc., in a marvelously rapid and correct manner. With his right hand he dapped the glasses with a little stick, while with the left he played an accompaniment on the organ. His performances were often interrupted by the applause of the delighted audience, and won an overwhelming encore. It is certainly worth the price of admission to hear Mr. Benjamin, to say nothing of the other attractive features of the performance. The remainder of the performance was rendered in the most acceptable manner, gave complete satisfaction, and consisted of vocal selections by Miss Packard, who possesses a very sweet and flexible voice; a Quaker duet, by Miss Durgin and Mr. Phelan; duet on the Swiss bells, introducing the old and familiar airs of "Love Not" and the "Last Rose of Summer;" a humorous quartette, "A Very Bad Cold;" several difficult airs by the Alleghanian Sextette Silver Orchestral Band, and a new descriptive song, "When these Old Clothes were New," by Sam Collins. The performance concluded by rendering several of our national airs on the Swiss bells. Altogether considered the performance was really fine, and is in every way worthy of liberal patronage. This evening the "Alleghanians" will appear again in their specialties, and every night the present week. Go hear them and judge for yourselves.

THE STAGE.

Prof. C. B. Plummer, the well known humorist and delineator of comic character, is now giving performances out at Bannock City, Montana.

Says the San Francisco Figaro of July 20th: Mr. L. S. Lynch left by the steamer Macregor yesterday for Melbourne, as advance agent in Australia for the Lingards, who leave in September.

The Jacksonville Sentinel says: The Rosedale dramatic troupe performed at Veit Schutz's hall in this place on Saturday and Monday evenings, to quite a large audience the first night, on which occasion was presented Charles Wheatleigh's sensational comedy in five acts, entitled "Virginie, or a Victim of Circumstances," in which Mrs. Fulford as Virginie, and others of the company in the different characters of the piece performed their respective parts very creditably.

BRIEF NOTES.

Steamer due to-night.

Festival at A. M. E. Zion Church on Thursday evening for the benefit of the pastor.

Persons visiting the coast will find the OREGONIAN every evening at Charles Stevens' Book Store, Astoria, and on the wharves at that place.

In consequence of the death of Mr. I. M. Singer, Portland, Me., the office of the Singer Manufacturing Co. in this city, will be closed to-day.

In respect to the memory of the late Major John Walker, whose remains arrived here on the California, the flag was displayed at half mast yesterday over the military headquarters.

PERSONAL.

Mr. D. G. Waldron, manager of the Alleghanians, is an old editor, having been quite prominently connected with journalism during the early days in the history of California. Many years ago he visited Portland, and his name will not sound unfamiliar to some of the old residents of the city.

THE COURTS.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT—DEADY, J.

William C. Prettyman and wife to Job C. Smith; a piece of land situated in section 6, T. 1 S., R. 2 E.—$1,250.

Any time to-day go to Fabre & Barnes', central market, for a lunch.

BALL AND BAT.

The Pioneers will practice at 5 o'clock this afternoon, on the East Portland grounds, and at 8 o'clock this evening a meeting will be held at their rooms. A full attendance is desired on each occasion.

Scappoose can now boast of a base-ball club, organized and in running order, with thirty members. Its standard was, unfurled to the breeze on last Saturday, with the name of Red Oak. The following officers were elected for three months: F. H. Watts, president; J. M. Joy, vice president; L. N. McEvers, secretary; T. C. Watts, treasurer; directors, C. Johnson, R. Joy, J. McKay.

The grounds on the east side were the scene of a base-ball meeting, for the first time this season, last Saturday. The contesting clubs were the Arcadians and Pioneers, the former club presenting their fall nine, with the exception of Cushing (Wilcox filling his position); while in the latter some old as well as new faces appeared. Without comment we append the score:

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Koshland Bros. offer bags for wool and grain also flax twine. Send.

The St. Charles hotel is meeting with a liberal share of patronage since Chas. Perkins and D. J. Quimby have taken the management. They are both well known. See card.

F. B. Taylor & Co. have disposed of their stock of paints, lamps, etc., to Yates & Co., who will continue the business at 113 Front street, San Francisco, Cal. The attention of the trade is directed to the advertisement elsewhere.

Success.—The North Pacific Mutual Life Association of Portland, Oregon, has issued one thousand and eight policies to this date.

The Alleghanians and Fabre's coffee all the sensation now.

The Warwick and Elmwood collars so closely resemble linen, that the only difference you can detect is that they look and fit better.

INDEPENDENT STATE CONVENTION.

At a meeting of the Independent State Central Committee, held at Portland, July 16, 1875, it was resolved that a State Independent Convention be held at Salem on the 10th of August, 1875, at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of nominating a Candidate for Member of Congress.

The basis of representation adopted is one delegate for every 100 votes cast at the last General Election for T. F. Campbell for Governor, one additional for a fraction of 50 or more, and one delegate at large for each county. Under this apportionment, the several counties are entitled to Delegates in the State Convention, as follows:

Baker	2	Lane	6
Benton	3	Linn	8
Coos	2	Marion	8
Curry	1	Multnomah	7
Columbia	2	Polk	6
Clatsop	1	Tillamook	1
Clackamas	3	Umatilla	3
Douglas	3	Union	2
Grant	3	Wasco	3
Jackson	2	Washington	6
Josephine	1	Yamhill	5
Lake	1

The Committee recommend that the people of the several counties meet either in Primaries or Mass Meetings, as they may deem best, on the 31st day of July, to select Delegates to the State Convention.

JOS. BUCHTEL, Chairman.

J. I. THOMSON, Secretary.

KOHN is making quite an attractive display in his new Store, corner of First and Morrison streets. The new goods have arrived and his customers, new and old, may find some really handsome styles for summer wear. In Furnishing Goods he can accommodate the most fastidious. He knows the wants of the people, and has none but complain about the scarcity of styles and the quality of the fabrics offered. The prices are regulated according to the times.

For the Summer and Fall season some new and appropriate styles in clothing have been introduced. The large and varied stock at BECK & WALDMAN'S is worthy of inspection by all intending to buy something unusually new and attractive. Their late arrivals of Furnishing Goods are also very fine and must meet with great favor. This firm continue to offer special inducements in youths' clothing. In every, respect their stock is complete.

COLD LUNCHES.—The oyster season having closed, WALLER & SON, Oak street, between First and Second, will serve Rare Lunches to their patrons at all hours. The OXFORD SALAD DRESSING, their own preparation, is meeting with great favor. Try it.

LACES! LACES!

Having perfected arrangements with an acquaintance in London I am enabled to offer Laces at lower figures than they can be purchased elsewhere in the city. I have these goods in SHAWLS, HANDKERCHIEFS, SACKS, DRESS TRIMMINGS, and by the yard. The ladies are invited to call. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Don't Make War on the Stomach.

If you are bilious, dyspeptic and constipated, don't make war on the stomach by successively swallowing blue pills, strong purgatives and powerful astringents. Such a procedure damages digestion and weakens the bowels, leaving stomach, liver and intestines, after the immediate effect, in a condition of greater disorder than before. That complete relief which remedies of the above description signally fail to afford, is obtained by using Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. And for the best of reasons. Biliousness is the result of inactivity of the liver, dyspepsia of weakness of the digestive organs, and constipation is produced by the above causes operating together. The Bitters, being a powerful stomachic, overcome indigestion by stimulating the secretion of gastric juice, relieve biliousness by promoting greater activity of the liver, and thus enable the bowels to act with renewed regularity.

BODIES FOUND.

Mr. A. S. Abernethy, writing from Oak Point, yesterday, says:

On Sunday evening, about 6 o'clock, a man discovered the body of a child in the river, lodged a short distance below Mr. R. C. Campbell's house, on the Oregon side, opposite this place. Further examination showed it to be an Indian girl, apparently about seven or eight years old. The body had evidently been in the water several weeks, as it was much swollen and decomposed. It was entirely naked, except a pair of moccasins on its feet, and a small piece of calico over its chest. The remains were taken care of, and will be decently buried to-day (Monday). No marks of violence appeared, though the body is in such an advanced state of decomposition that it would be hard to tell anything about that, but it had every appearance of being accidentally drowned.

Since writing the above, a fisherman has come up and informed me that another body, supposed to be that of Jno. McQuade, drowned July 18th, from the steamer Carrie, was found last night floating in the river opposite Wm. Hume's fishery, Eagle Cliff. The body is that of a boy, about twelve years old, dressed in striped pants, light shirt and shoes. It is considerably decomposed, and bruised about the head. The body was taken ashore at Jos. Hume's, Eagle Cliff, and will be cared for until claimed by friends.

BOXING WITH SARTORIS.

THE PRESIDENT'S SON-IN-LAW MEETS HIS MATCH IN THE BOXING ARENA—A YOUNG STOCK BROKER BATTERS HIM UNMERCIFULLY.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Algernon Sartoris, the President's muscular son-in-law, appears at last to have met his match in the boxing arena. His set-to with the champion boxer of Washington last winter, when he completely used up his antagonist, is said to have stiffened his pride, and of late he has rather piqued himself on his ability to vanquish anybody who came along. His latest tussle, according to the testimony of a Sun reporter, has been with a Mr. Goicouria, a young stock broker, who compared points with Sartoris at Long Branch. Each of these gentlemen exhibited knotted cords which would have done honor to a prize-fighter, and each showed as much pride as muscle. The upshot of the big talk was an argument between the two gentlemen named to test their strength and skill in a glove-fight, and ex-Collector Murphy's stable on Ocean avenue, not far from the President's cottage, was selected as the place of meeting. It is a spacious building, and the main floor afforded abundant space for the fistic encounter. Monday morning the friends of the contestants drove from the West End Hotel to Mr. Murphy's stable, six coaches being well filled with sport-loving young men, and the men stripped to the buff, both showing magnificent muscle and both being in good fighting condition. Although rather below the size of his opponent, Mr. Sartoris seemed to be harder in flesh, and able to stand more punishment; and in the preliminary sparring it was plain that his knowledge of the noble science of self-defense is greater than that of his adversary. But in point of strength and in quickness of foot Mr. Goicouria had all the advantage. The first round was a cautious one on both sides, although Mr. Goicouria got in a left-hand facer, which Mr. Sartoris reciprocated with a neat clip on the side of the head, administered with his right. Then followed a series of feints and parries, and the round ended. Mr. Sartoris opened the second round with a bold attack, which Mr. Goicouria skillfully parried, and seeing that his opponent, in his eagerness, relaxed his guard, he went for him right and left, the result being a knock-down. From this time out the game was all in the hands of Mr. Goicouria. After getting first knock-down he drew first blood, and for six or seven rounds battered the President's son-in-law unmercifully. Mr. Sartoris stood up round after round with bull-dog courage and endurance, but at length his friends saw that his chance of winning was less than nothing, and persuaded him to retire.

WITCH HUNTING IN THE WEST.

The Columbus (Ky.) Messenger says: There came up in Clinton county last week a very peculiar trial for this enlightened age and this land of boasted Christianity, bringing to mind the narrow-minded superstitions of the Puritans in the days of Cotton Mather. There lived a few miles from Clinton, in this county, a well known and respected family by the name of Berry, the eldest daughter of which has been married, and lived in the edge of Ballard county. This daughter had poor health and it seems must not have been deranged. This daughter told the family that a man by the name of McDonald had died near Charleston, Missouri, and that he since appeared to her in the form of an angel and made various revelations to her; that he had told her the nature of her disease, and what to do to effect a cure; and that she had followed the directions given and been relieved thus proving the reliability of the spiritual communication. She also told them that on another occasion this spirit had informed her that certain neighboring ladies were witches, and that they would come to the house in the form of cats and do them some great injury.

The family were believers in the power of spiritual to communicate with physical beings, and their minds were so wrought upon that they fully believed the insane story of their daughter. The Holy Scriptures were searched for confirmatory proofs in prophecies and in parallel cases of history, as well as for authority as to what should be done with the witches. Here they convinced themselves that "witches" should be put to death.

In the meantime the ladies who had been accused of witchcraft were apprised of the state of mind existing in the Berry family, and beyond endurance. Finally, one day while the two boys of the family were out getting wood, a couple of cats came running and caterwauling near by. The boys, to use their own words, "thought the witches had them," and scampered into the house. The elder boy, aged probably 15 or 16 years, took a gun and went out to shoot the cats, or witches, or whatever they might be, but failing to find them he began making threats against the ladies whom he supposed to be identical with the cats, for no one believed that these ladies could transform themselves into cats, and again resume their human shape at will. Some reports say he actually went to their houses in search of them, making threats by the way.

Having gone thus far, other neighbors interfered and caused the arrest of the family, consisting of Mr. John Berry, his wife, and two sons. Being themselves put under oath, they testified that they solemnly believed these stories of witchcraft, and that in justice and obedience to the Scriptures, the witches should be killed.

One or two attorneys and some other citizens told them that such belief was insanity, and that if they persisted in it they would have to be sent to the insane asylum. After considerable reasoning they admitted that they might be mistaken, and they were released on giving bond in the sum of $500 for good behavior.

HOW IT FEELS TO BE STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.—Mr. A. Castle, a farmer in Whitewater, Mich., was recently struck by lightning, and thus describes his sensations: As the storm came up, he says, he put his team in the barn and sat down in the door, facing the inside. A stroke of lightning which killed his horses and prostrated him did its work too swiftly to give him the slightest warning of its coming. His first remembrance upon returning to consciousness, was hearing his daughter, who had run down from the house, about twenty-five rods distant, exclaim, "Oh! father is dead!" Upon opening his eyes, the whole air and sky seemed to be ablaze. He also became conscious of the most intense suffering, and especially in his lower limbs. He says the pain was like that of a burn, and that he could not have suffered more for the hour that followed if he had been in the flames. His wife and daughter, upon seeing that he was still alive, desired to remove him to the house, but he begged to be left where he was and not to be disturbed, as he felt he could live but a few minutes, and that he might as well die there as to be put to the needless torture of removal. As he seemed to gain strength, however, he was taken to the house and made as comfortable as possible, but eight or ten hours elapsed before he was able to move either of his lower limbs. The left hip and leg seemed to be more affected than the right, and the symptoms, for a time, indicated that the bones were injured. But these have passed away, and a slight lameness now remains. The right lung has been very sore since the occurrence, but this may have been caused by an injury received in falling. The mark of the lightning is apparent from the shoulders to the calf of the right leg, in the shape of a broad, irregular strip, from which the skin has peeled off as though it had been scalded.

The facts and figures which bear upon the present condition and the future of trade in our country are matters of interest, and we make some extracts from the semi-annual returns of the mercantile agency of R. G. Dun & Co., for the half year ending June 30th. The figures which the agency presents as to the failures for the first six months of the current year, are important as showing that notwithstanding the severe and universal depression, the casualties in business have not been excessive. The total number of failures in the entire Union are stated to be only 3,375, which is a very small quota in view of the large number in business—reported by this agency at over 650,000. The total amount of liabilities due by the parties who have failed, is stated to be nearly $75,000,000.

The number of failures reported in Oregon during the time was thirteen, including liabilities to the amount of $202,940. These figures are a trifle in excess of those for the same period of 1874, as near as can be ascertained, no half yearly returns having been made until this year.

"Attributing the limited number of failures in the United States, in such trying times, to the small internal indebtedness which the agency has all along maintained was the case, and still further stating that the failures, "in prominence and significance, have been of really less importance than in former years," the circular goes on to say that while this may be subject for congratulation, there is cause for apprehension that all these months are going by, not only with no money being made therein, but it is feared that the profits of the limited trade done are inadequate to meet the expenses incurred. Judged by the standard of a previous generation, or by the figures that prevail in other countries, the expense of business and the cost of living, even in the best of times, have been, excessive; and, as is always the case with extravagant habits, it has been found most difficult to reduce this class of expenditure in the same ratio that trade has declined. The expectation of improved business, which each successive season has held out, has had its influence in retarding retrenchment in this respect, which now, however, cannot be longer with safety delayed. The general result of business since the panic, it is therefore concluded, has been to reduce, rather than augment the capital employed, especially so if a rigid valuation of assets at present realizable prices is made. Prices that now prevail for the product of almost all classes of industries have steadily declined, while the extent of the production in many leading lines, though largely reduced, keeps in advance of the demand, notwithstanding the concession in values.

The Grain Crops and Markets.

During a short trip up the valley within the past few days, we learned that there are now no doubts as to the fact of all the fields of fall-sown wheat yielding at least a full average crop if not over. The harvest has been somewhat hastened by the recent hot and dry weather and has begun in earnest. No threshing has been done, but the quality and yield can be easily judged. In spring-sown grain the prospect is not so good, and it is feared that the yield will be short in many sections. The growth has been greatly retarded for want of moisture, and many fields of both wheat and oats are heading out at not more than a foot in hight. The stalks are also getting almost dry enough to crumble when crushed in the hand, and will require much rain to produce anything like good crops. This, however, applies only to those places where the land does not hold moisture. On the swale lands the plants present a more hopeful appearance and promises a fair out-turn, a fact not usual in Oregon agriculture.

There are fewer choice fields of oats in the Willamet valley this season than last and the excess of the acreage will but little more than make up for the short yield especially on the high lands where the hot suns of July have been almost sufficient to wither all kinds of vegetation.

At the present writing there are few new features in the market and in absence of actual transactions we can only give what is offered and what is demanded. The latest Liverpool quotations are 10s 2d @10s 3d for average California and 10s 7d@10s 10d for club per cental. It is said that over nine million bushels are on the way from the west to the Atlantic board, which, should sufficient tonnage to carry it over the sea be obtained readily, would very soon overstock the European market, and at least temporarily reduce prices there. Our market, however, will be entirely governed by the wants of the English and other continental importing markets after the surplus of those countries more convenient of access has been exhausted, and that surplus being shorter than the average, any decline caused by a general rush of grain to market on account of the sudden advance is not likely to be permanent.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship Gussie Telfair from Victoria and other Puget Sound ports, reached her berth at 8 o'clock this evening.

The steamship John L. Stephens, from San Francisco, will be due here to-morrow night.

The bark Sea Nymph arrived at Astoria on Sunday, and will probably reach this port to-morrow.

The bark Rival dropped down the river to-day to load lumber for San Francisco.

The barkentine Melancthon is about due at this port from San Francisco.

The bark W. H. Besse has been chartered in San Francisco to load lumber, etc., at this port for China.

San Francisco Markets.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—Flour—$6 75@7. Wheat—$2 20@2 25 for best samples.

Barley—Feed, $1 45@1 55; brewing, $1 60@1 65.

Oats—New California, $1 75@2, old and Oregon, $2@2 25 @ 100 lbs.

Hay—$12@18.

Potatoes—$1 40 down to $1 10, sweet, $3 50 to 4.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—There is not much excitement in our market to-day in regard to wheat, and transactions have been off for the day. A Liverpool telegram reports a decline of 3d. A small lot was offered at $1 35 to-day, and $1 90 was offered, which looks as if some buyers at least, had not lost confidence in the permanence of the advance.

FLOUR—In sympathy with the firm tone of the wheat market, flour, as predicted by us yesterday, has been advanced to-day to $6 ₰ bbl for leading brands and is firm at that figure. Other grades have kept pace with the standard extras, and are quotable 50c@75c lower, or $5 50 ₰ bbl for outside brands, and $5 for superfine.

OATS—There is less excitement in this cereal than prevailed earlier in the week, and it is now too late in the season, and the surplus of the old crop too nearly exhausted to get up much feeling. The demand is fair, and jobbers and shippers quietly take the few lots that offer at 60@70c ₰ bushel.

HAY—A full supply in the market, quotable at $10@11 ₰ ton for fair to best timothy, loose, and $11 baled.

POTATOES—The market is in fair supply at 75c@$1 ₰ bushel.

ONIONS—There are but few lots in the market, quotable at 2c ₰ lb, nominally.

APPLES DRIED—The demand is hardly so active, and receipts have somewhat fallen off. The out-going steamer to-day carried none. Quotations are nominal at 7½@8c ₰ lb.

BACON—The demand at San Francisco is reported dull. We quote our home market quiet at 11@12c ₰ lb for sides, 8a9c for shoulders and 11½@12½c for hams. All kinds in fair supply.

EGGS—There has been a continued fair demand for the limited quantity on hand for shipment. Prices are kept at 22½@25 cents per dozen, fresh laid commanding the latter figure quite readily.

LARD—Good Oregon made is worth 16c ₰ lb in kegs and tins, and in bbls 15c.

BUTTER—We offer nothing fit to choice roll at 22½c ₰ lb; extra print for table use, 20@25c; common solid 18@20c.

CHICKENS—The market is in liberal supply; quotations range for full grown $4 25@4 50 per dozen; spring, $3 50@3 75.

BEEF CATTLE—Some very fine arrivals have been noticed during the week, and the market is supplied with an excellent class of slaughterers' prices are 3½@4 25 per cwt. neat, or $1 75@2 30 on foot.

MUTTON SHEEP—The demand is light at $2@2 75 per head.

DRESSED HOGS—There is some inquiry for the local trade at 6½@6½c ₰ lb.

HIDES AND FURS—Prices for hides are still down, on account of many damaged lots reaching the market. Undamaged lots range from 6c ₰ lb for dry deer hides 6c for green; culls, 5@10c; elk, 18a20c ₰ lb. deer, 18@30c ₰ lb, dried, and 50c for a piece, green; mink skins each, $1 50; otter, $1@5; beaver, 75c@$1.

WOOL—There has been some decline in the movement, though several large lots have arrived during the past week, and this has transpired to change the quotations of 22@25c as given for fine valley wool and 21@22c for that from east of the mountains. The Commercial Herald says: The shipments of wool eastward, both by sea and land, have thus far in the season been of considerable magnitude, resulting in reducing the stock of all kinds in San Francisco to about 1,250,000 lbs, out of a year's production of 25,000,000 lbs. There is now very little Oregon wool obtainable, as the bulk of the clip is controlled by two or three parties who prefer to ship the same East for their own account.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

This compound of the vegetable alteratives Sarsaparilla, Dock, Stillingia and Mandrake with the iodides of Potassium and Iron makes a most effectual cure of a series of complaints which are very prevalent and afflicting. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system that undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they dicease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, as Tetter, Erysipelas, Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side and Head, Female weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation and General Debility. With their departure health returns.
